The Farmers' Conventions

With the holding of the annual convention of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association at Moose Jaw during the first week of February, this year's great gatherings of the organized farmers of the three Prairie Provinces were concluded. These annual meetings, attended by thousands of representative farmers from every nook and corner of the three Provinces, not only command the interest of every man and woman engaged in agriculture, but their deliberations are followed with the closest attention by Governments, financiers, transportation interests, manufacturers, and business men generally, as well as by all organizations interested in social and moral reforms.

To the casual onlooker at one of these big gatherings—so big that it is next to impossible to secure auditoriums large enough to accommodate the delegates, not to mention visitors—they are too big to permit of that careful consideration and intelligent grasp of the important questions which come up for decision and action. At times the conventions appear to become unwieldy, almost unmanageable, and somewhat confused as to the issue before them because of a multiplicity of motions, amendments and amendments to the amendment. No doubt a delegated convention restricted to two or three hundred men and women, selected from districts, could transact business more expeditiously.

But smaller conventions would result in loss of some of the most apparent and undoubted advantages of these big gatherings. The big convention is a veritable dynamo for the development of enthusiasm in behalf of those particular reforms to the accomplishment of which the organized farmers have set their hands. These large gatherings provide ample opportunity for hundreds of men and women to attend who otherwise would never receive the inspiration inseparable from such a gathering together of people engaged in a common task and confronted with common problems. As a result, each succeeding convention sees many new faces in the audience, and the influence of the farmers' movement is thus more widely spread over this agricultural land.

It might be feared that such manifestations of abounding enthusiasm would lead to ill-considered, hasty action. The opposite appears to be true in most instances. Year after year resolutions from individual locals called for radical and even drastic action are considered by the conventions, but when facts are given and new light thrown on the subject of which the Local was not aware, the big convention invariably rejects the resolution, fully or adopts it in a very much modified form. The ultra-radicals are respectfully listened to, their point of view considered, and then the good judgment and sane common sense of the vast majority render a decision. These annual meetings, therefore, have a steadying influence. They clear the atmosphere of much for which farmers in local spots throughout the year. This, indeed, is one of the most valuable features of these big annual get-together meetings.

And the big conventions are fair and open-minded. "Equity" is the motto of the organized farmers of the West. Emphasis is laid upon it at every convention. And the delegates strive earnestly to live up to it. Anything unfair or underhand is immediately scorned by these big gatherings. Personalities are strictly out of order. The organized farmers are demanding justice for themselves in the carrying on of the primary and basic industry of the Dominion, they recognize the right of everybody else to just treatment, too. They are not asking for special privileges for themselves, and feel there is no injustice in fighting against the continuance of such privileges now enjoyed by others. Complete equity all round is their motto and also their fighting ground.

The conventions in all three Provinces this year had two outstanding questions before them—the much talked of "wheat pool" and the proposal that the farmers' organizations as such should enter the Provincial political arena in their several Provinces. The idea of a "wheat pool" was enthusiastically endorsed, because the wheat growers have become firmly convinced that the methods which have so long prevailed under which the wheat product becomes the plaything of market speculators must cease. They have too much at stake to allow such methods to continue indefinitely. Two avenues of reform seem to present themselves—one, action by the Federal Government; two, co-operative action by the farmers themselves. Failing the first, the farmers are determined to evolve some plan whereby the second may be brought into practical operation. But no hasty, ill-considered steps were taken. There was general appreciation of the magnitude of the task before them—the biggest ever attempted by organized farmers. The huge financial and transportation problems involved were fully and frankly recognized, but there was a grim determination in evidence to find a solution to these, and the Executives were authorized to proceed diligently with the work of finding the solution. It was also made clear that in this task the farmers would have the active sympathy and support of the Western Provincial Governments.

As to the advisability of entering Provincial politics, opinions differed. In some Provinces the majority view favored such action; in others the majority opinion was that such action was not necessary, that the time was not ripe for it, and that to force it would be ill-considered and a mistake. But so far as Federal politics are concerned, there was absolutely unanimity—the farmers are going to fight as a body in the next Dominion election.

Where Money Is Tight

Everybody suffers, when boots are tight your corns hurt, but they can be painlessly relieved by Putnam's Corn Extractor. Guaranteed in all cases. Use only Putnam's, 25c at all dealers.

The salary and allowance of the President of the French Republic amounts to about $240,000 a year.

Building Prospects Bright.

Construction contracts awarded in Canada for January total $8,947,500. This is an increase of $201,000 from December, 1920, and of this amount $243,400 constitutes the amount for Ontario. It is predicted that there will be $300,000,000 worth of new construction during 1921, and that $100,000,000 will be spent in Ontario.

The Wool Market.

Canadian wools continue to sell on the basis of small lots. Stocks of Canadian wools on hand are estimated at not more than enough to meet the working demands of the mills from now till the clip arrives. The market for pulled wools remains slack, but there are no large supplies of such wools on hand. As the bulk of combing lengths have been exported. Ungraded wools are quoted as follows: Coarse, 15c; fine, 18c; very fine, 22c; washed 25c. Graded wools are still quoted from 28c for finer grades running down to 17c and 18c for coarse wools.

Germans Working For Palestine Trade

Making Strenuous Efforts to Recapture Former Monopoly.

Sir Alfred Mond, member of the Zionist organization's economic council for Palestine, has returned from Palestine, and, according to the London Times, stated he was impressed most favorably with that country's possibilities. He warned British traders that the Germans were making strenuous efforts to recapture their former monopoly of its markets, and urged the building of strong trade connections now in view of the future importance of commerce with Palestine, which he described as being in the process of active development.

RELIEVE YOUR COLD WITHOUT MEDICINE

Just Breathe "Catarrhozone," Its Balsamic Vapor Does the Rest.

It's a tiny germ that sets up the irritating mucus colds to disengage. Colds die quickly if Catarrhozone is used, simply because the vapor of Catarrhozone instantly destroys the germ that keeps the cold alive. Every breath you draw through the inhaler fills the whole breathing apparatus with pure pity cures that stops colds at their very beginning. You experience a pleasant sensation of relief as the coldness, congestion and irritation leave the nose and throat, the head is cleared, and every trace of cold or catarrh is relieved. Catarrhozone is so sure, so pleasant, such a safe remedy for winter ills that you can't afford to do without it. Get the dollar outfit, it lasts two months and is guaranteed to relieve; small size 50c; first size 25c, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

B.C. Goatbreeders.

NOTHING TO EQUAL BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Mrs. Georges Lefebvre, St. Zenon, Que., writes: "I do not think there is any other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets for little ones. I have used them for my baby and would use nothing else." What Mrs. Lefebvre says thousands of other mothers say. They have found by trial that the Tablets always do just what is claimed for them. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus banish indigestion, constipation, colds, colic, etc. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Performance of ## Dairy Cattle

A Holstein cow recently eclipsed all Canadian records for yield of milk and percentage of butter fat, according to Report No. 12 issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. This report gives the records of performance of all pure bred dairy cattle from April 1, 1919, to March 31, 1920. Also the standards of every breed, and a list of bulls qualified for registration. The names of the cows are given, and also those of the sire and dam, the owner, the breeder, age at test, date of calving, production required, and total production, percentage of fat, the number of days milked, and in the majority of cases the number of times milked per day. The last mentioned matter having lately been a subject of experiment at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, and Macdonald College, Que., it is interesting to note that many of the Ayrshires were milked three times a day and some of the Holsteins four times. Of the Ayrshires the greatest yield of the year is credited to a mature cow owned by the Nova Scotia Agricultural College, Truro, and the best percentage of butter fat to a cow owned in Prince Edward Island. Of the Holsteins, the record yield for the year is credited to a mature owned by the Colony Farm, British Columbia, and the best percentage of butter fat to another British Columbian. Of the Jerseys the first in point of yield is an animal owned at Edgely, Ontario, while the best percentage of butter fat is attributed to a three-year-old owned in British Columbia. A four-year-old Short-horn owned at Buckingham, Que., claims the record for that breed in quantity of milk, and a two-year-old owned at Watford, Ont., the highest fat content.

St. Patrick's Social

The Ladies Aid of the Union Church are having a Social Evening and Concert in the church, Thursday evening, March 17th. A good time is expected. Plan to enjoy the 17th of Ireland. The aim of this Social is to remove the debt on the church property, amounting to about sixty-five dollars. It is hoped that this worthy object will receive very hearty support.

LOCAL &amp; GENERAL

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute met at the Union Church, on Saturday, February 26th. There was a fairly good attendance and four new members were enrolled. An interesting article was read by Mrs. W. McKory, on the "Parapets of the Home," also a duet was rendered by Mrs. R. W. McFarlane and Miss A. A. McLennan, and both items were much appreciated by those present. The meeting was brought to a close with a little social time over the teacups. An interesting program is being arranged for future months by the Board of Directors, and we trust all the members of the Women's Institute will endeavour to be present at the next meeting and help to make the Institute a live unit.

Are you going? Where! To Africa of course. Say, what are you giving us, where will I get the money and time? This will cost you nothing at the Union Church, on Tuesday evening, March 8th, at 8 p. m. You will have an opportunity of taking a trip with Livingstone into Africa, without the inconvenience of jungle travel, wild beasts, snakes, etc. This alone is real good, but there will also be a very interesting and varied programme. It is bound to be worth your while as it is under the auspices of the Crossfield Young People's Society. Everybody Welcome.

The Choir of the Union Church was re-organized last Monday night, there being twenty present. The Conductor is Mr. Augustine Arldige, and the following are the executive; Honorary President Rev. R. K. Swenerton, President Mr. S. Willis; Vice President Mr. F. Honeysett; Sec. Treas. Miss Wheelock; Librarian Mrs. M. Reed; These with Mr. M. McCool constitute also the Look-Out and Entertainment committee. The opening practice was a very enjoyable one and the first number will be by the Choir next Sunday night. The practices will be held every Monday night at 8 o'clock, in the church, and other singers will be welcome at the next practice as there are still a few chairs to be occupied.

Mr. Wallace Fogie, Provincial Boys' Work Secretary paid a visit to Crossfield last Tuesday night. He met with the Trail Rangers at the Union Church and talked to them of the principals and progress of boys work in the province. He suggested ways in which the local organization may be further extended. He also made particular mention of the National Athletic Competition to be held April 25-30. At the C. Y. P. S. Social he told some very interesting and funny stories. Altogether his visit was much appreciated. Mr. Fogie is one of the leading boy workers of Canada.

"Well," flared the widow, "if it's so, it's so. Bill Paisley," she cried, "you get off my property and don't you come back here no more. You kin steal a noor widder's only daughter." He sobbed, dropping the kettle and covering her face with her apron. "You can't come here and do it. You'd better get off my place."

Paisley patted the girl's hair and picked up his rifle.

"I'm sorry you take it that way, widder," he stammered. "I hate to go, and now I smell that bacon you've been cookin' I just naturally hate to go now. But I guess that widder Ross could fix 'em like no other woman this side of the creek."

"Me! Mary Ann be the only woman on this side," snorted the widow, dropping her apron. "I'll own it. I did not mean to know this mornin' for why, I don't know. So if you want to, you kin come in and get breakfast. But she added, "you'll sure have to get my property after you've eat."

The good lady picked up her kettle

The Young Mother

Young, with its vitality, makes for the young mother's health and happiness. But later, maternal experiences bring a different result. The care of a family, multiplied household duties, and very often the weakness caused by womanly diseases, tend to prolong the suffering and to make convalescence slow and weary process. Many women—perhaps your own neighbors—have had beneficial experience with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which prepares the prospective mother. Send 10 cents to Doctor Pierce's Remedial Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial package of tablets.

HAMILTON, ONT.—I was advised by a practical nurse to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a tonic during expectancy, and I have had every reason to be grateful for her advice, because it kept me in perfect health and I had practically no suffering. The Prescription not only benefited the mother, but I am positive the child is benefited, too. I would not hesitate to recommend this Prescription to every expectant mother.—Miss O. and whisked into the house. Paisley smiled at Mary Ann. "You always have such a way of goin' round ma," laughed the girl. "Mary Ann, you've got a proper good ma," said Bill earnestly. As they entered the house young Tom came running up the path. "Isn't it awful?" he cried. "They think poor old Noah was burnt with the schooner. They found his skiff floatin' near the middle grounds."

CHAPTER XXV. And the Day After.

It was nearly mid-day when Paisley sought his skiff once more and made to cross to Bushwhackers' Place. It had turned bitterly cold within the last couple of hours and the ice upon the surface of the creek was almost too thick to break with a paddle. Out across Rond Eau black wisps of duck were rising from the water and fluttering upward like smoke puffs, melting in a broken line into the hanging snow-clouds. Declute was standing on the opposite shore. He spoke as Paisley's boat parted the mere rushes.

"They'll all go to-day, Bill. By night that won't be a duck on the bay."

"Been over to Mac's?" asked Paisley. His eyes were on the low-lying bank of the charged atmosphere, and his shaggy brows were puckered in a scowl.

"Goose, come from there," answered the other. "Serna like old Nick has been loose amongst us la's night, it does."

"Then you've heard?" Bill nodded toward the black patch on the white waves.

"It was me seen it first," replied Declute. "I seen her burnin' near mornin'." Man, but that was a wild sight! Red sky above her and red water all about her. After daylight come I gets in my boat and goes over to the hull. Injun Noah's skiff was thar floatin' bottom up near the middle grounds."

Declute left for his pipe, lit it, and threw the charred match down with a shudder.

Paisley stepped from the boat and brushed past him up the path. "You told Mac, I suppose?"

"Yep, they knew it, and Gloss she is takin' on some. I guess she thought a lot of poor old Noah."

"I reckon she did," agreed Paisley. "He brought her here eight twenty years ago."

They found Big McTavish carrying fodder from the corn-stack into the log-stable. From the chinks of the barn between the logs came the white breath of the horses, and the chickens released from their coop ran in and out of its open door.

"Bill," said the boy man, his blue eyes humid with feeling, "it looks as though poor old Noah went with the schooner."

"It does," nodded Paisley. "Mac, we all know who it was burned the boat and bad as we know Hailbut to be, it's awful to think he would sacrifice that old man's store there wouldn't be a witness against him when he tries to prove we did it. It's awful."

Boy came up, his face worn and his eyes heavy. He placed the spade he carried inside the stable door and turned away up the path.

Paisley stepped forward and threw his arm about Boy's shoulders.

"You're shakin'," he said, "you ain't just yourself. You musn't take on hard like you're doin', but I guess maybe Joe had more sense than poor dog's body than all them cut-throats had among the lot of 'em, but Joe is done with this life. Boy, don't you take it hard."

He drew the young man towards the house, and half way to the yard Boy stopped and lurled a look down across the valley.

"Bill," he cried, "I told you I would wait till you came back, and now you're back I'm goin'."

"Where's he gone?"

"He got away last night," said Paisley. "He was hurt bad. I guess old Joe did it. They carried him off, and he won't ever come back here again, Boy."

"L! me go," cried the young man, shaking himself free. "I don't care where he's gone, Bill, I'll follow him—"

He snatched up the rifle leaning against the ash-leech and dashed across toward the creek. Paisley followed more slowly. He came up to Boy was pushing his canoe into the ice-coated creek.

"The ducks are leavin' to-day, Boy," he said, "look at 'em. They've had a glut time this season, I go us, take it all round now, fadins, and as they don't seem to want to go, make do, they?"

Boy glanced up, then he stood erect in the boat and watched the detached flocks of frigate water-fowl sweep and pitch and at last mingle in the greater flocks, fading south. Sweetly and shrilly their strong wings beat the frigid air, the sound of their pinions now rising, now falling, and at last thundering as the great flocks dropped low as though to bid the old marsh feeding-ground a last good-bye.

"They're goin' away, Bill," he remarked absently. "Even the little teal that were hatched right here in this marsh are goin'. Seems odd, don't it? I guess they know it's come winter."

"Seems like they know it has," answered Paisley, "and I think they're sorter promisin' this old dead ma'sh they'll come back when it's spring and nest again. "Member the old gray duck's nest me and you found down near the other-run, Boy? Good, I'd never believed an old ma'sh could take on like that one did. Kept flyin' right in my face, and there her little ducklin's, just hatched, kept divin' in the water and pointin' their heads sideways like they were sickin' her on to use and enjoyin' 'scum me get a whalin'." By gum, my face was sore for morn' a week where her wings brushed me and you—why, you just stood there laughin' at me gettin' the whippin'."

Boy was smiling now, his head lagging on his breast, his hands blue with the cold, clasping and unclasping the paddle.

"The little devil," he said softly, "the little devil. I don't suppose there's anything sadder than the little wild things of the ma'sh. Bill, I've been out springs with Dave, and you know how he can handle birds and things. I've seen baby snipe, baby rats, baby rails, and all the little babes of the ma'sh. They're all like them ducklin's. There's none of 'em scared and all of 'em easy."

Paisley bent and pulled the skiff high up on the bank. He took Boy's arm in his and they went back along the walk together. And as they turned the house darkened and the snow began to fall in zigzag sheets that hid the flocks of migrating wild ducks, and the low song of their beating wings grew more muffled and at last died away altogether.

"There's something I want to tell you, Boy," said Paisley softly, when at last companions sought the path to the house. "I want to tell you, Mary Ann, that I am glad—glad as I goin' to be married in the spring. I reckon you'll be glad to know it."

Boy did not lift his eyes from the ground.

"I sort of knowed all along you and Mary Ann would marry some day," he said. "And, Bill, I am glad—glad as I can be to-day."

The inner door of the McTavish home had been taken from its leather hinges to make an additional table for the guests assembled. Seated about that table were the faithful and mothers of Bushwhackers' Place. Fat, touse-headed children ran and toddled and crept about the wide floor.

The table was laden with all of the good things that the Bushwhackers were accustomed to partake of. A couple of fragrant boiled hams, a great deal of cornbread, dried venison, pickles, cucumbers, pickles, boiled rice, a deep custard made in a milk-pan by the deft hands of widow Ross, and a variety of other good things, and the table and dish it out proudly; strong tea, and cream and maple sugar to make the rice palatable.

Heart Weak, Nerves Shattered After the "Flu."

In a large majority of cases those who survived the last epidemic of Spanish influenza were left with weak hearts, shattered nerves, and a general condition of debility. The whole system has been left in such a general weakened and exhausted condition that it has been impossible to get back your old health and strength.

If you are in this condition there is only one thing to do; take a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and see how quickly your heart will be strengthened, your nerves toned up and your blood enriched.

Mrs. W. W. Prince, 14 Seaton St., Toronto, Ont., writes: "I was left with a weak heart and in a rundown condition from the 'flu.' My nerves were badly shattered, and I had such pain in my heart I could not sleep much at night. I took several doctors' medicines without getting any better. I then tried Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after I took one box I got relief; after taking six boxes have been well and not bothered since."

Rebellion Days, 1884-85

By O-GE-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

On reaching home I found the Indian had behaved well, so I had a heart to heart talk with him and advised him strongly to go back to Nut Lake or Touchwood Hills where he came from. I told him that if he went on, his life was not worth a rush (for in the excited state of the settlers they would shoot at anything in the shape of an Indian); if he decided to return I could not give him any ammunition, but I would spare a few rations of flour, tea, sugar and tobacco, also some snoring twice which would see him safely home. His wife joined with me in coaxing him and finally he promised to start back next morning, which he did—so exit Nut Lake. A short digression may be pardoned here to show that (contrary to Yankee opinion) even Indians will show gratitude; in fact I have known many instances of them doing so, and this is one of them. In March, 1886, nearly all the settlers throughout Northern Saskatchewan went down to Qu'Appelle station for seed grain and grub, there being a dearth of both in the country. This was supplied by the government and I was one of the crowd. Our homeward journey we passed through the Touchwood Hills, our ponies were heavily loaded and frequent spells at the steep hills were in order. At one of these we pulled up quite close to some Indian tepees. I noted an Indian scanning both me and my team very closely, shading his eyes with his hands, and jumping up on a wagon box he took one more look, then diving into his tepee, he came running out with a new rabbit skin robe which he threw on my sleigh. Standing up on the box he called out in a loud voice, "Look at this man, he saved my life. Now my new robe will keep him warm in the snow" (and it did). Sure enough, it was our Nut Lake friend, Sos-coo-pi-ton, I think they called him. A great shake hands all round followed, and I had to tell my companions the story that night. All our camps were made in the snow, 32 days for me, the round trip being five hundred miles.

To revert to my diary. On proposing to my wife that I could take her and the children to Prince Albert, also our furs and that I would go either scouting or on the transport, she absolutely refused to consider any s-paration, and said we must all stay together no matter what happened. On scouting round the place a day or two later I found a body of some forty Indians, evidently from Nut Lake, had camped for a night a mile or so south of my house, and then struck southwest in the direction of Batoche. No doubt they were rebels, or going to join the rebel forces. This decided me that it was no longer safe for an isolated settler to stay on his farm, and I told my family as soon as we could pack up we would trek for Ft. La Corne. (A year or so after the rebellion an Indian told me that a council had taken place with this war party as to whether they would raid my place or not, and it was only decided by a narrow majority that I should be left alone.)

Some six miles south of old Ft. La Corne was a retired H. B. C. clerk named Geo. Goodfellow, an old-timer and absolutely fearless where Indians were concerned, and I felt convinced he would still be on his ranch and there we would head off. Between us both we could probably arrange a safe way out of the country if there was a general Indian uprising as reported.

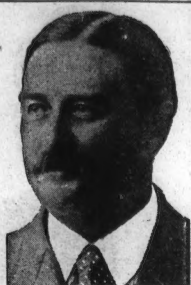

While we were preparing for a start, Zavier Batoche called about noon as he was riding past, and we were very glad to see him as he had remained steadily loyal in spite of much pressure being brought on him by Riel and his compatriots. He would not, he said, fight against his misguided countrymen, so had a hiding place in the Pasquia Hills with some friendly Indians. He stayed to dinner and the fare was poor enough, simply bannock, potatoes and black tea, no meat or butter. With his natural French politeness he made things very pleasant and was very much taken with my three fair-haired little girls.

He thought my move was a wise one, and though his large assortment of furs were safely cached at present, he might eventually send them down the Saskatchewan River. I went out with him as he saddled up and after thanking me for my hospitality, handed me what he called a trifle for Madame in a cotton sack, which proved to be some ten pounds of very choice bacon, which was a noble gift considering conditions. Poor Batoche, or Ka-Kak, so styled by the Indians (meaning raven, as he had very black hair) made a good deal of money fur trading, but took to drinking heavily, which no doubt shortened his days.

Leaving our pictures hanging on the walls and quite a number of other household goods, including seed potatoes, off we started. The order of travel was myself on horseback well armed with a fourteen shot Winchester and a heavy six shooter, my wife driving a team of ponies in a buckboard with two kiddies, and our girl with the oxen and wagon and two older children, behind which came three head of stock (all we owned at that time). I would ride ahead for a mile or two and then circle the party. We had the usual trade in crossing some five creeks, which delayed us so that it was well on in the evening when we made Carrot River. And here an old settler, Mr. Chas. Robertson, very kindly took us all in for the night.

After an early start next morning, and when we were about halfway to La Corne, in one of my rides ahead I caught sight of three mounted men riding in a southwesterly direction, and after studying them through my field glasses I came to the conclusion they were Riel's men, as I could detect the fine cloth capots with rib buttons, also gilt crosses sown on their breasts. Their arms were evidently single barrel muzzle loaders, and after a moment's thought I rode to intercept them. On meeting them I gave the usual Cree salutation, "Wah-chah," to which they cheerfully replied (the mother tongue of nearly all the French Metis was Cree). We all got off our horses, took our fire bags and settled down for a smoke and a talk. As I had thought, Riel had sent them down, their errand being to cover all the government cattle, but in this they had failed as the Indians very wisely hid them, so they were returning empty handed. I asked whether they were bothering settlers. "No," was the reply, "we passed close to Mess-wa-ri-it's (Goodfellow's) house and saw the children playing at the door." They were evidently not at all enthusiastic over the prospect of war. All they wanted was their rights from the government, and they had no quarrel with the new settlers. After a few more remarks we parted and I returned to our teams, finding one of the oxen quietly lying down in a slough, and the women very angry at my long absence. A prod or two, some strong and vigorous language, and behold Mr. Ox climbed out of the mire like a cat, rather to the disgust of the ladies.

Threatened With Extinction

Death Rate in Russia Under Soviet Rule Is On Increase.

Washington.—The population of Petrograd and Moscow in Soviet Russia has greatly decreased, according to Russian dispatches.

The population of Petrograd is 706,000, 71 per cent. less than in 1917, and in Moscow, the population has dropped to 1,015,000, about 50 per cent. less. The death rate in Moscow has increased from 8 per thousand in 1918 to 22 per thousand last year, while in Petrograd the death rate was 24 times as great as in Moscow. The birth rate has fallen, despite increased marriages. About three-fourths of the workers in Russia now are women, aged men and children.

Government Roads Are Effecting Freight Economies

Diversion Planned in West For Decreasing Amount Of Hauling Distance.

Edmonton.—In the co-ordination of the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian National Railway in Alberta several important diversions are planned in the western division of the system for the purpose of decreasing the amount of hauling distance, particularly as applied to coal and other commodities. It is announced by officials here that diversions already proposed will eliminate several bridges, particularly the long trestle bridge, one of the longest on the system, over the Battle River, near Norway, south of Camrose. This renders necessary the construction of several miles of new track. They will also eliminate the Grand Trunk Depot at Camrose, at which point the Canadian National terminal will serve all purposes of the Canadian National system.

The new line from New Norway to Battle, the Battle River subdivision south of Camrose, is contemplated in order to shorten the mileage between Brazeau, the coal centre west of Red Deer, and Wainwright, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, 127 miles east of Edmonton.

The new changes are expected to save about 36 miles in the hauling of coal from the Brazeau fields.

Instead of transporting coal from these centres via Wainwright, which was the condition in the past, consignments will be brought via Mirror along the new line, thus eliminating the Battle River bridge.

Death of Western Editor

M. R. Jennings, of Edmonton Journal, Succumbs to Heart Disease.

Victoria, B.C.—Milton Robbins Jennings, aged 47, managing director and editor of the Edmonton Journal, died here from an acute attack of heart disease. Mr. Jennings came to Victoria several weeks ago in an effort to regain his health. He was a native of Warsaw, New York.

Mr. Jennings was taken ill in the late autumn and went for treatment to Portland, where his wife was awaiting him. About a month ago he was well on the way to recovery and came to Victoria where he and Mrs. Jennings had planned to stay until he had regained sufficient strength to return to his active duties.

Vancouver.—Extensive damage to timber limits on the British Columbia coast was caused by the windstorms at the end of last month according to reports of timber cruisers to Vancouver lagging firms. It is estimated that 30,000,000 feet of timber is down on the limits of Brooks, Scanlon and O'Brien, near Powell River.

Fruit Growers May Balk

Move to Have United Farmers of B.C. Join With Prairie Organization.

Vancouver.—Norman Lambert, secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, Winnipeg; C. Rice-Jones, general manager of the United Grain Growers, Winnipeg; and J. B. Muselman, secretary of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association, Regina, will address the annual convention of the United Farmers of British Columbia here this week.

It is understood that one of the important matters to come before the convention will be the position to be taken by the association as regards politics. During the past year all locals have been asked their opinion as to whether the United Farmers should join the Canadian Council of Agriculture. If the association falls in line with the prairie organization, it will mean that British Columbia farmers will be adopting a free trade platform and this will not by any means be satisfactory to the fruit growers of this province, who are strong protectionists. It is believed that the mission of Messrs. Lambert and Muselman is to persuade British Columbia farmers to join the council

The Industrial Outlook In Western Canada Is Full Of Promise

The Government of the Province of Alberta, through its Statistical Branch, makes the statement that and admittedly conservative estimate of the value of farm production and of live stock on the farms within the province at the end of 1920 reaches a total of over $430,000,000. It can be said that the agricultural and livestock values of the other Prairie Provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan would come within reasonable bounds of, or may exceed, Alberta's total, and thus a sum of over one billion dollars is seen as the value of agriculture of the western provinces.

In looking at the future of the west, it is permissible to emphasize the small proportion of available agricultural land that is today under cultivation as compared with the total area of arable land available for tillage and stock grazing. To these factors must be added the values of agriculture, minerals, forests, fisheries and other resources of the province of British Columbia, as well as similar resources in the prairie provinces, and the as yet undiscovered or unproven potential wealth such as oil and other assets of the west.

Canadians taking into consideration these well-known facts, realize that in a country yielding so abundantly there is only reason for progressive development and no reason whatever for doubt of a continuance of prosperity.

It is a noticeable fact that the movement towards normal trading conditions has already commenced. Factories that have been working part-time or with reduced staffs are taking on additional men, and by the end of January a large number of plants will be again in full operation. In country districts, merchants are sending in orders to replenish stocks and the commercial traveller is finding conditions rapidly improving. The unemployment which has never been excessive, has been taken care of in a practical way, and a few weeks will see the absorption of a large proportion of those seeking work.

On the Pacific Coast, discussions are now taking place with a view to a price-cut in logs while the retail lumber trade has under review the necessity of reducing cost of lumber. Campaigns are already anticipated looking to a continuance of active housing plans, and prospective building promises a better year than that of 1920. In Manitoba, the extension by the Manitoba Power Commission of power lines to 40 rural districts is being completed. At Kenora, a large pulp mill is to be erected with one or two other pulp mills at Fort Arthur and Fort William, one at Harrison, B.C., and another on Massett Island, B.C. Provincial governments are securing construction of public buildings, more especially for university extensions and utilities, and large sums of money are to be expended on main and rural roads throughout the west.

So far as one can see, the promise is for many activities along all lines of development, and it is not difficult to forecast a period that will bring with it a maintenance of the prosperity of the Canadian West.

Farm Education In Alberta

Three New Agricultural Colleges Opened in Different Parts of the Province.

In regard to population, Alberta has more agricultural students than any other province of Canada, and a total of 600 young men and women are in attendance at its agricultural schools and establishments this year. With the growing demand for practical farm education, three new agricultural colleges were opened in different parts of the province this winter at a cost approximately half a million dollars. All the schools are fully equipped with the most modern farm paraphernalia and offer fine courses in every branch of farm activity.

The first English newspaper produced to do no more than publish news which had already been published abroad.

Canadian Shoe Industry

Sixty-Three Million Dollars Worth Manufactured in 1919.

More than nineteen million boots, shoes, moccasins, etc., with a sale value at the factory of approximately sixty-three million dollars, were manufactured in Canadian factories during 1919, according to figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. A preliminary report on the leather, boot and shoe industry, covering the operations of 161 individual plants, has been prepared by the Bureau. The location of the plants is as follows: Quebec, 91; Ontario, 56; New Brunswick, 5; Nova Scotia, 4; British Columbia, 8. The total capital invested in these plants, according to the report, was $38,680,581. Male employees to the number of 9,755, and female to the number 5,586, were engaged in the work of turning out boots and shoes, and were paid $13,250,744 salaries and wages for the year. Of this number 612 were paid under $5 a week wage, and approximately 1,200 were under 16 years of age. The total cost value at the factory of materials used in manufacture, according to the report, was $40,523,696.

Save the Forests

Every Citizen of Canada Is Interested In Forest Preservation.

T. A. Sparks, president of the Western Retail Lumbermen's Association, touched upon a real need when addressing the recent annual convention of the association. "Every citizen of Canada," asserted Mr. Sparks, "is interested in forest preservation," and he pointed out that in the last 75 years by fire alone a loss had been sustained equal to 450 years' supply at the present rate of consumption. "Unless a live interest is taken by every Canadian," he stated, "we are going to see the end of our prairie timber in 25 years and of our entire Canadian supply in 50 years, and the elimination of the employment of over 100,000 men in an industry in which is invested 300 millions of capital." The growth of the pulp and paper industry is one of the greatest industrial developments which the Canadian people can count upon—if we save our forests.

Invest in Health

Find a Game to Play With Exercise In It.

Walk to work. If you cannot walk the whole way walk part way. Those lungfuls of fresh air, those shafts of sunshine and that swing of legs may make all the difference between sickness and health. Find a game to play with exercise in it. The social contact of the game occupies and relaxes the mind while the exercise is building the body almost unconsciously. But never let the game grow mechanical. Who goes skating and comes home never knowing whether the stars were out, who plods over the golf course never knowing whether the foliage is red with October or green with May, has missed half the point of the game.

Have you a hobby? If not, find one. And preferably let it be a hobby with fresh air and exercise in it. Ride your hobby down any road where the guidpost points to Rest and Recreation, and you come at last to the village Inn At the Sign of the Good Digestion.

There are no short cuts to health. Dr. Common Sense is the best medical authority. Health, like generosity, is its own reward. It pays rich dividends to every honest investor.—Boston Globe.

Sun Nearest in Winter

About Three Million Miles Nearer the Sun in January Than at Midsummer.

Incredible as it may seem, the earth is about three million miles nearer to the sun early in January than it is at midsummer. The respective distances, to be exact, are 91,345,000 miles in January, and 94,450,000 miles at the end of June or the beginning of July. Why, then, is it not warmer in the winter than in summer? Simply because our part of the earth is tilted away from the sun in winter, thus giving us long, dark nights. Another strong reason is that during the winter days the sunlight falls on our region of the globe at such a sloping angle as to give very little heat. If the earth's annual path were a perfectly circular one we would be, of course, always at the same distance from our luminary, but as it is not circular, we are either constantly getting farther away from or nearer to the sun. Another interesting fact is that the nearer we are to the sun the faster we move. Our average speed around the sun is 18 1/2 miles per second, and in that brief time the earth departs from a straight line by only the one-ninth part of an inch.

Canada's Navy

American Paper Commends Dominion On the Star Made.

It is altogether fitting that Canada should be given the honour of a national navy, now that peace has been finally won at the point of the sword. A Canadian navy, manned and officered by Canadians, will foster among all Canadians a commendable pride in the national achievement. It will at the same time serve as a guarantee of the rights of Canadian merchant ships on the high seas. An efficient and well-trained Canadian navy, however small in size, will always be a valuable addition to the British Empire. It is creation should, therefore, be endorsed both by the British Admiralty and the British people. A Canadian navy can never endanger the peace of the world, nor menace the liberties of mankind.—Boston Transcript.

Another Province

May Yet Form a Tenth Province of Canada.

The Northwest Territory which was left over when the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta were organized may yet form a tenth province of Canada. Much has been learned about the resources of this district in the last seventeen years. The oil discovery at Fort Norman gives more definite knowledge of one kind of natural wealth. Arctic exploration is revealing other resources. An admittedly conservative estimate of possibilities are under investigation and experiment. The greater part of the Territory is yet practically unknown land. The oil discovery at Fort Norman will stimulate further exploration. We may expect that in the coming session of parliament some provision will be made for the administration of the district in accordance with its growing importance.—Vancouver Province.

Facts and Figures Prove That Farming Is An Increasing Industry

Turks Are Fatalists

Medicine and Doctors Are Regarded With Little Respect.

One of the reasons the Turks used to be such good soldiers was because contempt for life is the essence of the faith for which they fought. "Divinely calm" are words that have been employed to describe the profound and complete resignation to "the will of Allah," which fatalism is an integral part of the Mohammedan faith.

The pious Mohammedan has ever present in his mind the end of earth and the beginning of life beyond. The Turk is said to consider himself as an individual camped in this world, as his nation has so long been camped in Europe. And he considers the joys of life only shadows in comparison with the everlasting delights which await him in paradise.

Such a view of life and death causes the common Turk to regard medicine and doctors with little respect. For, according to his belief, if he has heard the call "Return," he will die, doctor or no doctor. And if the appointed time has not yet arrived he will recover, so why be troubled with a "charmer" or his bill?

Rush To Fort Norman

Hudson's Bay Company Warns Intending Travellers To Fort Norman to Apply Early.

Prospectors and adventurers planning to join the expected rush into the Fort Norman oil fields in the spring are warned that only a comparatively small number of them can be taken to the district by the river steamers operated by the Hudson's Bay Company on the Mackenzie.

Reports that the company is content to wait for the best building program for the Mackenzie River route, are denied. Construction of a river steamer to replace one now in use is unavoidably delayed, and this year's plans are limited to two gasoline tugs and three freight barges. "It is expected," says an official announcement by Angus-Brabant, fur trade commissioner for the company, "that these auxiliaries to the company's fleet will take care of their own requirements and such outside freight and passenger traffic as they have previously been in the habit of carrying."

Improvements to their transport system, it is added, are for the company's own trade requirements.

Travellers and prospectors are warned that the company cannot guarantee to carry passengers and freight which has not been accepted by their transport department at Edmonton. Priority of application will govern in this matter, it is understood.

The Origin of Meteors

It Is Conceivable That They Are Fragments of Smashed-up Worlds.

No question has been more disputed among astronomers than that which concerns the origin of "shooting stars"—more properly called meteors. Laplace was of opinion that they came from volcanoes on the moon. A recent authority, Sir Robert Ball, thought that perhaps they were thrown out from terrestrial volcanoes in the distant past. What we are able to observe of them from specimens that fall upon the earth would seem to indicate that they are debris of some kind. They are plainly fragmentary in character, and when not of mere stony stuff are of "various metals, chiefly iron. It is entirely conceivable that they are fragments of smashed-up worlds, but the theory that they are debris of comets that have gone to pieces is more plausible. Meteors entering our atmosphere travel through it at rates which seem to vary from 10 to over 100 miles a second. Friction rapidly burns them up, so that probably only the slow ones are able to reach the earth without being entirely consumed.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Much has been said and written during the past year about the exodus of population from the farms to the cities and towns both in Canada and the United States, and, from time to time, various suggestions have been put forth to remedy the situation. Vacant farms there are in different parts of the country, and always will be, but it can hardly be said, for that reason, that farming is losing its attractions or is, as a whole, a declining industry.

Certainly this is not the case in Western Canada, where land brought under the plough is steadily increasing, and where the crop output, year by year, is showing appreciable gains. According to the Canada Year Book, the area of occupied farm lands in the three prairie provinces has increased 25.04 per cent. in the five-year period 1911-1916, or from 58,623,117 acres to 73,300,135 acres, the province of Alberta showing the greatest increase, but Saskatchewan the greatest area. The same situation is found regarding the number of farms. Alberta leads with 15.53 per cent. of increase and Saskatchewan 7.92 per cent., but having over one thousand farms more than the former.

Manitoba, with a much smaller percentage of increase, cannot be fairly compared with her sister provinces, for it was the first western province to be settled, and until 1912, when its area was doubled by the passing of the Boundary Extension Act, her size was but one-half of either Alberta or Saskatchewan. By the revision of the boundaries, however, Manitoba received an additional 114,000,000 acres. The greater part of the province is still the property of the crown and open to homestead, though some, of course, is held by private companies.

It is interesting to note that the size of the greatest number of western prairie farms is a unit between 101 and 200 acres, with a unit between 201 and 320 acres next following. Students of farming statistics have always claimed that as mixed farming became more popular, the size of the farm unit would decrease, and in view of the foregoing facts, it would seem as if their contentions were justified.

Whether the popularity or unpopularity of farming is on the increase, the fact remains that the Canadian farmer last year is a strong argument in favor of the former. According to official figures, field crops reached the huge sum of nearly $1,500,000,000, exceeding the total of the previous year by $162,000,000 and that of 1918 by over $261,000,000.

When one considers the vast available western farming acreage that, as yet untouched, lies waiting the coming of the tiller of the soil, it is easy to understand how hostilities and doubt in the facts of increase in population and steady annual increase in the area under crop and its market value.

Pacific Coast Fisheries

Success of Captain Martinson and His Crew During the Past Season.

An instance of the revenue to be derived from the Pacific coast fisheries is that of the success of Captain Tony Martinson and his crew during the past season. In addition to board and keep at work, each member of the crew earned five thousand dollars cash. Martinson's revenue was much larger. He has been able to buy a $11,000 vessel and still has a neat surplus left from his last season's catch.

Creameries Pay 8 Per Cent.

The Co-operative Creameries in the province of Saskatchewan did over $3,000,000 business in 1920, compared with $2,500,000 in 1919. The shareholders, all of whom are farmers in the province, were paid in advance a dividend of eight per cent.

Sun Life Company Makes Big Advance

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF SUN LIFE.

The year 1921 marks the fiftieth anniversary of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada which in the half century of its existence has grown to be one of the largest and most successful life insurance companies in the world.

A comparison of the growth of the company's business by decades is perhaps the most convincing proof of the steady development of public confidence towards it.

One year after it was organized, in 1872, the company's income was $46,000; its assets, $96,461, and it had written policies for a total of $1,864,350. By the year 1880 the income had grown to $141,402, with assets $473,082 and insurance in force of $3,897,139. From this time onward the development of the company, not only in Canada but in stretching out to many other countries of the world, proceeded at a rapid pace, as the tables for the next four decades indicate:

1890—Income .....	$ 889,000
Assets .....	2,473,030
Insurance in force .....	16,759,030
1900—Income .....	2,789,000
Assets .....	10,486,000
Insurance in force .....	57,980,000
1910—Income .....	9,575,000
Assets .....	38,164,000
Insurance in force .....	143,549,000
1920—Income .....	28,751,000
Assets .....	114,839,000
Insurance in force .....	486,641,000

Such a record stands alone in the annals of life insurance companies in Canada. Nor after such a great achievement is there any sign that the company has any intention of standing still on its laurels, for during the past year there was written in new insurance upwards of $106,000,000 which in itself exceeds by $20,000,000 the high mark of 1919, which up to that date was a record for the company. It is interesting to note that during its fifty years of existence the Sun Life has paid out to its policy-holders or their beneficiaries over $100,000,000. Details of the financial statement of this company for the past year appear elsewhere in this issue and will be studied with more than usual interest in this its jubilee year.

HOW TO SAFEGUARD YOUR DIGESTION

The Blood Should Constantly be

If you suffer from any form of indigestion your diet should be carefully chosen. Over-eating is always harmful, but at the same time one must take enough food to supply the needs of the blood. It must be remembered that the blood has to carry nourishment to every part of the body, find fuel for its energy and defence against disease, as well as the requisite juices for digestion. Hence when the blood becomes weak or fails to perform its digestive duties, as also when indigestion begins the blood still further suffers. Therefore, to safeguard your digestion, the blood should be kept rich and free from impurities. For more than a half a century Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a favorite tonic for enriching the blood and strengthening the nerves. If, therefore, you find yourself troubled with indigestion, or other ailments due to weak, watery blood, you will find Dr. Williams' Pink Pills both safe and effective. The value of this medicine in cases of stomach trouble is shown by the experience of Mrs. J. Lewis, Lake George, N.S., who says: "I suffered very severely with indigestion, I had severe pains in the stomach after every meal. I had a loathing for food, my rest at night was very much disturbed, and my general health was declining. I was under a doctor's care, but did not find any improvement. Reading of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had done in a similar case I decided to try them with the result that after giving them a fair trial, my general health was improved, and all symptoms of the indigestion that had troubled me disappeared. I feel very grateful to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for saving me from so much misery."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Compose Suit Of Cafe au Lait Velour

By Gertrude Beresford.

The compose suit is one that appeals to many women because of its practical qualities. This model is made of cafe au lait velour in plain and striped weaves. The former is chosen for the coat. The long collar, however, shows a pleasing use of the striped fabric. The skirt, too, is made from the striped velour as well as the jaunty turn back cuffs. The soft tulle of brown satin reveals a soft draping on the side. The type of suit just described suggests an excellent way of making over clothes. Sometimes a dress gets rubbed in the bodice while the skirt is still quite presentable. By getting enough material for a coat you may readily evolve a delightful suit.

Conquers Asthma. To be relieved from the terrible suffocating due to asthma is a great thing, but to be safeguarded for the future is even greater. Not only does Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy bring prompt relief, but it introduces a new era of life for the afflicted. Systematic inhaling of smoke or fumes from the remedy prevents re-attacks.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

The Crossfield and District Agricultural Society staged a very successful Masquerade Ball, on Friday, 25th inst. The turn out was very good, and a large number of the people took the trouble to mask. All famous characters from "Happy Harry to George Washington" were represented, while charm and color were given to the Hall by the presence of many dainty and topical feminine costumes. His Satanic Majesty looked devilish and felt it when he did not get a prize, and there were hundreds of applicants for the job of nephew to Charley's Aunt.

The prizes were awarded to the following:—

Best Hired Costume, Lady

"Martha Washington"

Miss Gemmill.

Gentleman

"Court Jester" Mr. V. Palmore

Best Comic Costume, Lady

"Charley's Aunt."

Miss Wheelock.

Gentleman

"Belshazzar's Understudy"

Mr. T. L. Golden.

Card of Thanks

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oldaker wish to thank all those of Crossfield and district who so kindly contributed to the subscription raised on their behalf, thereby assisting them since, having their home burned down during their absence.
